

Kelly Hamilton will say she is an educator at heart. She started her career 23 years ago in the classroom, teaching high school French and English. Some of her favorite memories are of the many travels with her students through Europe instilling a sense of independence and the value of a broad world view.

Kelly made the transition into school administration in hopes of having a larger impact. She is most proud of her work at one of the first high schools in Indiana with a 1:1 laptop initiative, supporting faculty and empowering young people through the use of technology.

Kelly's belief in the power of technology led her to join the ANGEL Learning team where she contributed to the growth of the K12 business, and she eventually found her way to the Higher Education team at Blackboard where she held several marketing roles, and for the last seven years served as a Senior Strategic Account Executive. In this role, Kelly managed some of Blackboard's most strategic client partnerships, and in 2021, Kelly accepted the Blackboard Chairman's Award, a client-nominated honor.

Throughout her career, Kelly has continued to stay engaged in the education community in Indiana by serving as a consultant for the Center for Evaluation and Education Policy (CEEP), Indiana University, and a founding board member of Nexus Academy of Indianapolis.

Outside of her work, Kelly enjoys hiking and camping with her husband and four children and dreaming up their next perfect trip.